Sales & Marketing Strategy

Sales & Marketing Process

Our proposed marketing campaign is specifically tailored and highly responsive to your objectives, which we understand are as follows:

1. To dispose of the assets at the highest achievable value within a reasonable period
2. To conclude the disposition with a short due diligence and closing period with minimal risk

The strategy outlined below describes how Colliers’ platform is ideally suited to achieve these objectives.

Project Timeline

Our straightforward process.

Positioning Process

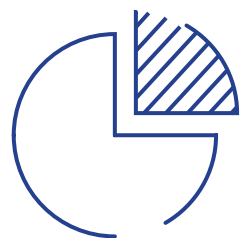

Positioning isn't just a "marketing" conversation.

Positioning a property against the competition starts with identifying what makes your project unique and aligning these qualities with the needs of your target market.

Understand demand through research

- Supply is only half the story
- What do buyers really value?

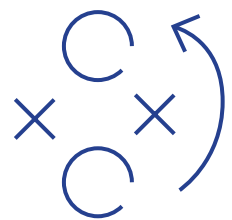

Understand the competitive landscape

- Where are the opportunities to differentiate?
- How is our competition positioned?
- Where are the opportunities/gaps?

Define how your asset will compete

- Strengths of the asset & target market values
- How are we different?
- How can we create a category where we are the only choice?

Back-to-Business Primer

Work Forward Together

The back-to-business primer serves as a practical, succinct checklist of activities and considerations for landlords and tenants as they prepare to reopen their physical workspaces and buildings. In addition to preparatory, pre-opening activity, the guide offers mission-critical activities to implement on day one, and in subsequent critical periods. The primer considers short-term action steps as well as long-term initiatives for portfolio and workforce strategy, both of which are important to consider as business priorities evolve.

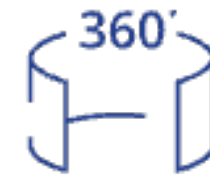

MARKETING TACTICS

Creating Experiences

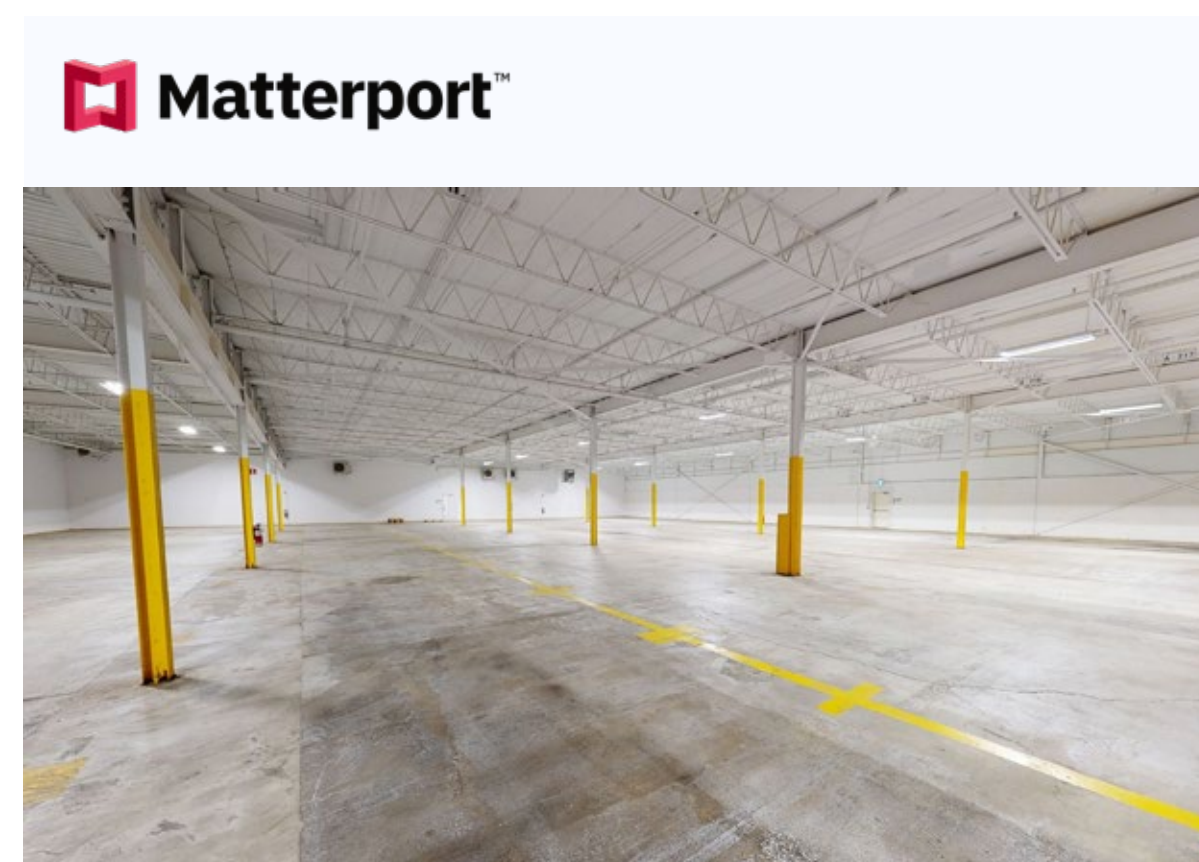

We do more than marketing – we create memorable experiences.

Creating virtual, unique experiences is imperative in our marketing strategies. Our world of technology is continually changing, requiring companies to adjust the way they conduct business. Colliers understands this environment and we evaluate and adapt our marketing strategies on an ongoing basis to stay ahead of the curve.

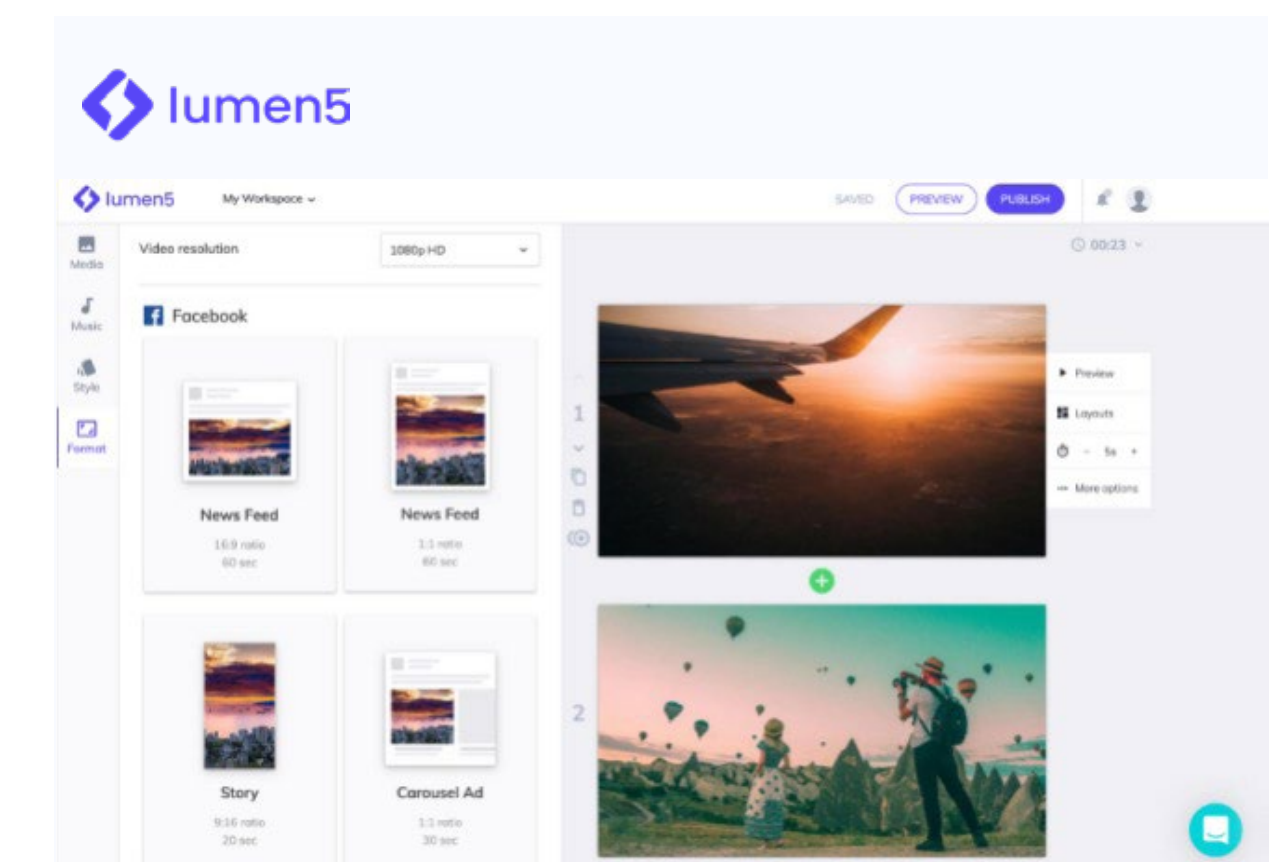

Colliers continually assesses what target markets are looking for and how you can best position your property.

Virtual tours and videos help you bridge the gap between speaking about a property and showing the actual space. As physical tours are not always possible, the value of being able to communicate the realities of a property is higher than it has ever been. Matterport gives you the capability to market to key audiences like remote decision-makers.

Lumen5 is a video creation platform powered by A.I. that enables us to create engaging video content within minutes. It is specifically designed for social media and is easily adaptable for various social platforms.
